America may be close to a tipping point. The silent majority is getting tired of being ignored. Americans are beginning to speak out about the dangerous direction in which our country is headed.

WE THE PEOPLE are tired of reckless spending policies, record national debt, corporate bailouts, government takeovers and disastrous public policies using our tax dollars for abortion and the embracing of radical far-left social policies that undermine the traditional values of our nations founders.

Do You Share AFA's Social Conservative and Small Government Values? Mark Your Calendar for Saturday Morning, February 20th, to Learn How You Can Make a Difference!

The axiom that "all politics are local" is true. Even though you may yell at your TV about national news, real change begins at the local community level and works its way to the top. That is why AFA of Indiana is hosting a grassroots activist training conference at the Grace Pointe Church on the far west side of Indianapolis near Raceway Drive and Morris Street on Saturday, February 20th. Doors open at 8:00 am, and the seminar will start promptly at 8:30. You can register online at: www.indianapolisteaparty.com

In order to cover our costs we need to charge for this event. A tax-deductible donation of $12.50 is requested per patron for this non-partisan educational event. "Tickets must be purchased in advance, as seating is limited."

MICAH CLARK
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
American Family Association of Indiana

In 1989 Micah Clark graduated from Southwest Baptist University in Missouri with a bachelor's degree in Political Science.

As the Indiana Family Institute's Director of Public Policy, Micah continued to work closely with the Indiana legislature in efforts to monitor legislation and inform Hoosiers of state policies affecting churches, businesses, and families throughout the 1990's. On November 1, 2001 Micah became the Executive Director of the American Family Association of Indiana.

In the spring of 2001, Governor Frank O'Bannon appointed Micah to serve on his Education Roundtable. Micah was appointed for a second term by Governor Joe Kernan.

In October 2007, Citizens for Community Values of Indiana named Micah its "Citizen of the Year" for his work for family values. In 2008, Micah was given the "Defender of Life Award" from Right to Life of Indianapolis for his leadership on life issues in the Indiana legislature.

DAVID LANTZ
Special Grassroots Conference Speaker for AFA of Indiana

David Lantz was the State Director of the Indiana Christian Coalition from 1992-1995. During his tenure, he trained over 300 grassroots activists and distributed hundreds of thousands of voter guides in Indiana. Some of the graduates of those Leadership Schools are now employed in State and National political organizations.

Now a college economics instructor, he prepared a socio-economic analysis of Central Indiana as a briefing book for the 1999 Central Indiana Billy Graham Crusade. In 2005, he was named Faculty of the Year by the first graduating class from the Indianapolis Campus of the University of Phoenix. He is the author of several books, including Point/Counter Point: Illegal Aliens & the American Way of Life, Bill Clinton: You're No John F. Kennedy, and a novel, The Brotherhood of the Scroll.
